BIOGRAPHY

Young American soprano Liora Michelle has performed classic lyric soprano roles to critical acclaim, including Mimì, Musetta, Micaëla, Nedda, Leonora (Il Trovatore) and Desdemona (Otello) among others, receiving praise for “the intensity of her performance and the extraordinary quality of her talent” (Il Globo) and her “heavenly sense of phrasing and timing” (The Herald Sun).

Born in New York to a Russian-Italian mother and Australian father, Ms. Michelle has both US and Australian citizenship. Though currently living in New York City, she became a celebrated artist in Melbourne, Australia during her extended years-long stay there. And in 2007 Liora returned to Australia for the national premiere of Verdi’s Attila in the formidable role of Odabella.

One of Liora’s many Australian concert appearances was as featured soprano in an EMI-sponsored tribute to Maria Callas performing excerpts from two of Callas’ signature operas, Norma and Medea. Liora was also given the distinct honor by the Italian Bureau of Cultural Affairs to perform for the globally broadcast Verdi Commemorative “Va Pensiero” Day. She continues her extension into the bel canto works with performances of the title role of Verdi’s Giovanna d’Arco in Central Park, Imogene in Il Pirata and Lucrezia Borgia.

An active recitalist, Ms. Michelle frequently sings programs of Russian, French, Italian, Spanish and German arias, art and popular songs around the NYC metropolitan area. Her repertoire includes Rachmaninoff’s rarely performed soprano opera arias for The International Rachmaninoff Society at New York’s historic Steinway Hall (“Ms. Michelle’s wonderful voice and dramatic presentation were inspiring.” (Rachmaninoff Society)) and the annual gala concert for New York’s Russian American Cultural Heritage Foundation (“RACH-C”). Liora has also performed at Carnegie Hall’s Weill Hall and the Liederkrantz Society, among other venues. Liora’s versatility extends to Viennese operetta and Broadway. She toured Australia with the Vue Grand Chamber Orchestra and performed in original biographic revues featuring the music of Cole Porter, Gershwin and Rodgers and Hammerstein. She was also regular featured soloist for Melbourne’s various popular open-air concert series for several years.

Recent and upcoming engagements include a concert tour of Japan and international music festivals in Estonia and Canada, the leading ladies in Madama Butterfly and La traviata for Center Stage Opera, Imogene (Il Pirata), Lucia (Lucia di Lammermoor), Juliette, Gilda and Elvira (I Puritani) for West Side Opera, recitals and concerts, including appearances at Estonian House, Scandinavian House and around the tri-state area.

In addition to her singing gifts, Ms. Michelle is an accomplished cellist, linguist and dancer. She has been a competitive ballroom dancer and is also trained in flamenco and tap. Liora speaks Russian, French, Italian, German, Spanish and Mandarin, in addition to English. Ms. Michelle currently resides in New York City.

REVIEWS

“Liora Michelle triumphed in the title role (Giovanna d’Arco), her sumptuous soprano soared and she negotiated the difficult tessitura of the ‘Sempre all’ alba ed alla sera’ with flexibility and flair. Many of her dramatic arias evoked the terrain of the future Verdi and made one wish to see and hear more of this young, gifted and attractive artist who recently was a memorable Leonora in Il Trovatore with the NYGO in Central Park. Whether singing with power or sweetness she was secure in her technique. The future looks bright for Ms. Michelle and this audience responded with cheers and bravas. Her exquisite trills, pianissimi and fiery bursts of passion still echo in memory.”

–The Italian Voice

“Liora Michelle, as Imogene [Il Pirata]...sang the long lines of cavatina, ‘Lo sognai ferito, esangue,’...in a soprano of purity and agility, and appended to it highly ornamented cabaletta ‘Sventurata, anch’io deliro.’ Michelle brought the opera to a close with a final cavatina, ‘Col sorriso d’innocenza,’ of pathos and cabaletta, ‘Oh, Sole! ti vela di tenebre oscure,’ of intensity.”

–qonstage.com

“Ms. Michelle was a lovely Leonora with a captivating stage presence....most pleasing soprano voice with agility and style. Her singing ‘D’ amor sull’ali rosee’...found her voice in full bloom and the ‘Miserere’...was sung with passion. Ms. Michelle’s death notes at the finale floated beautifully.... Michelle garnered generous applause from a most appreciative audience.”

–The Italian Voice

“Liora Michelle in the part of Leonora...sang expressively”

–The New York Times

“Liora Michelle as Micaëla is a new face to watch. She has a heavenly sense of phrasing and timing.”

–The Herald Sun

“The best of the evening is Liora Michelle...musically elegant, impish, sensual and elusive.”

–The Age

“The other happy vocal surprise was Liora Michelle...a bright, true, attractive voice that absolutely reflected the French origins of the character.”

–The Australian

“Liora Michelle gave a performance of the most beautiful Verdian arias...[she] touched the audience’s heart with the intensity of her performance and the extraordinary quality of her talent.”

–Il Globo

“...La Bohème, dove la protagonista Mimì era interpretata stupendamente dal soprano Liora Michelle.”

–La Fiamma

“Ms. Michelle’s wonderful voice and dramatic presentation were inspiring.”

–The International Rachmaninoff Society
